RAINWATER HARVESTING

The system of rainwater collection, installed in the house, has PVC channels and a laminate that direct water to a sedimentation tank and a sand and gravel filter for cleaning. From there, the water is directed to the ferrocement tank for storage. It has a collection capacity of 80 to 90 m³ of water in one rainshower, which represents a potential uptake of 96 thousand liters of water in a year.